A Healthy School Spirit

ALICE PICKERING, EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

ANOTHER year of high school life has come to its close and the Seniors are ready to leave. As we look back we recall the spirit with which the various activities have been carried out. In doing so we call to mind instances of various kinds of school spirit--good, bad and indifferent, and we rejoice to say that the first has predominated.

When speaking of "Spirit" we do not mean simply the fighting spirit which comes so naturally in athletics but we mean also enthusiasm shown in class work. We must have an ardent interest in our school work in order to make any sort of progress. Each one must do his share of the work. We have had many cases where the students have been very willing to profit by all the good things provided for them, and to enjoy a school reputation won by a certain hard-working portion of the student body, but who have been very unwilling to give anything of their own effort in return. We must bear in mind that it is not the thing for which we receive money value that counts so much, but it is what we ourselves do that helps us and brings our school into prominence. Clearly, then, we should lend our support in making a success of everything connected with our school.

It has always been our policy to try to secure the sympathetic interest of the patrons of the school, and to cause them to realize that this high school stands as a power for good in the community, but if we do not show a proper interest, how can we expect the public to take serious account of us?

Our enthusiasm should be divided wisely between our class work and our other activities, and it should be our constant aim to lift the standard of the school. We are here for an education, which should give us the power to think vigorously, actively and correctly, the power to acquire knowledge, to retain it and to act by it. Superior educational advantages should provide us with superior ideals.

"In the world's broad field of battle,
In the bivouac of life,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle,
Be a hero in the strife."

We have taken as a healthy sign of a good school spirit, the cheerfulness with which the work of securing class cuts and other material for the annual, was undertaken by the underclassmen. We wish that the same spirit of co-operation and helpfulness might be evident in all departments of the student body.

ALICE PICKERING '13

We thank the citizens of Roslyn and the students of the Roslyn High School, for having made this issue of the Annual possible. We have tried to make it a success, and we shall feel amply repaid if the Public judge it such.

Senior Class History

The history of the Class of 1913 certainly has not been an uneventful one. We entered high school true to our name, thirteen of us. The sleepy old high school rubbed its eyes and awoke. We succeeded in giving a party to the high school without the Sophs getting hold of our supplies. The girls gave a party to all the girls on April Fools' Day. We served sawdust and glue sandwiches with salted and colored water in "pop" bottles, beside refreshments of a more satisfying nature. The party was bombarded by the boys, but they were, classically speaking—stung! We wound up the year with a class party which required a six-mile walk, carrying supplies, but we did not mind that, of course.

When we began our Sophomore year we had dwindled down to ten. Nevertheless, we proceeded to enjoy ourselves with all of our strength. We gave two parties during the year. Toward the last of the year we presented the comedy "Wanted—A Companion" with the assistance of a number of the members of the other classes. We again wound up the year with a party three miles from town.

We started in, in our Junior year, to break all records. We studied hard, entered into debating work, broke our necks in football and basketball, and, in short, did everything that others told us was impossible. We gave the high school two parties, beside uniting with the Freshman to give a party for the alumni. We entertained the high school on Junior Day and on Senior Night, and took our part in the exercises by accepting the "Key of Knowledge."

As Seniors it was necessary for us to sober down. Now, as far as dignity and extent of knowledge are concerned, Plato and Aristotle have nothing on us.

In October we entertained the high school at a costume party. On February twelfth we gave the High school a program in honor of Lincoln's birth. On April twenty-fifth we presented the play, "Lost—A Chaperon."

In closing we will say that we hope the high school will regret our departure as much as we do.

Class Prophecy

While in my home one evening in 1923,
Sitting by a fire and drinking a cup of tea;
Alone, as usual, with my parrot and my cat
Who were my sole companions, while I sat
Thinking of my classmates and how ten years before
We were young and joyful, two young boys and girlies four;
We had left the dear old High School, to enter the world so drear,
A longing rose within me to see them all so dear.

Before I could think longer, someone rapped upon the door,
And there upon the threshold stood one who years before
Had filled the office of treasurer great,
Miss Alice Pickering, tall, fair and straight;
Soon we were chatting of the days of long ago,
And she told me of her fame (in which everyone, I know,
Is interested). She was an opera singer renowned,
Had received the greatest honors from all of the crowned
Heads of Europe; was greatly admired
And praised by everyone. She had all that she desired.

While we were sitting chatting, another rap was heard,
On the doorstep this time were two of the most absurd,
Specimens of tramp life, and as we gazed hard
We recognized, through dirt and smut, Ray Granberg and his pard,
Whom, after a moment's wondering, we declared to be Aloysius Ryczek. These two boys you see
Had found their life work in the beating of the tracks.
Their entire fortunes consisted of their clothes upon their backs.

Recovering from our wonder we took the boys within
And no sooner had started talking than the greatest loudest din
That ever had been heard of sounded at the door,
We hurriedly threw it open, and standing there before
Our startled gaze, in the middle of a crowd
Of children of all sizes, each one screaming loud,
Stood Odella Erb, now living in the dearest little home,
With a very henpecked husband and six children all her own.

And when we had quieted then by many different ways,
We settled down all comfy and began talking of the days
When we were Seniors in the R. H. S., and were fighting every day
Over mottoes, invitations, rings, and pennants, and the way
We'd carry on commencement, again somebody knocked,
And into the room, with a manlike gait, Frances Bowie stalked.
She was dressed in clothes of mannish cut—wore a Derby on her head.
“I am candidate for President,” was the very first thing she said.
But when she saw the class there she forgot to electioneer,
And soon our voices were joining in a mighty sounding cheer:

“Sling! Slang! Slap! Bang!
Ripping, roaring Senior gang!
Long, lean, shrewd, keen!
Rah! for 1913.”

Last Will and Testament of The Class of 1913

We, the Seniors of the Roslyn High School, in the City of Roslyn, in the beautiful Cascade Mountains, being supposed to have enough learning to obtain a diploma, do hereby make this, our last will and testament.

First, we bequeath the name of Seniors to the Juniors, because we cannot do otherwise.

Second, the back seats in the Assembly Hall, which we have long graced, we bestow upon the Juniors. May they do them justice.

Third, we leave the work of next year's Annual to the Juniors.

Fourth, to the Freshmen and Sophomores we leave permission to use the "spoon" corners of the stairway, but we hope when they have reached the dignity of Seniors, they will have abolished such frivolities, as we have done.

Fifth, our class "scraps" and squabbles concerning invitations, speakers, and other incidentals, we leave to the Juniors, in order that they may have a fund of entertainment next year.

Sixth, to the Freshmen we leave our class colors and flower, in order to save them the trouble of choosing new ones, and in order to provide them with enough time to raise their "D's."

I, Tom Ryczek, a member of the Senior Class, having gained much distinction in the Roslyn High School as a silver-toned singer, and having no further need for musical accomplishments, do hereby bequeath my beautiful tenor voice to James Lennon.

I, Raymond Granberg, a member of the Senior Class, do bequeath my faculty of "getting in wrong" to Eric Fiegle.

I, Odella Erb, bestow my dreaming nature upon Ruth Harper. May she enjoy it.

I, Clara Henry, bequeath my red hair to "Jennie of the Golden Crown." May she arrange it in the latest styles.

I, Frances Bowie, bestow the pleasure of pulling Eric's hair upon Beatrice Graham.

I, Alice Pickering, do give and devise unto Lucy Doerr, my dignified Senior gait. May she cultivate a distinguished air in her Senior year.

UPON THE FACULTY we, the Class of 1913, bestow our sunny smiles and winning ways, which have so effectually lead them to believe we always had our lessons.

We do hereby appoint as executors of this will Georgie Taylor and James Musso, who shall enforce it upon our survivors to the last degree.

In witness whereof, we have this day affixed our hand and seal.

SENIOR CLASS OF THE ROSLYN HIGH SCHOOL.

Witnesses: Adolph Peterson.

Class Song

Tune--"Dixie"

Oh! We are the Senior Class so true, sir;
We stand for the gold and blue, sir,
 Hip Hooray, Hip Hooray!
 Hip Hooray, Seniors grand!
All the other classes bow before us,
Everyone of them adore us.
 Hip Hooray! Hip Hooray!
 Hip Hooray! Seniors grand!

Chorus

Then we're glad that we are Seniors,
 Hooray! Hooray!
For the Seniors grand will take our stand,
 To live and die for Seniors.
Hooray, Hooray!
 Hats off to all the Seniors.

Oh, we're the class who run the school, sir;
We're the ones who enforce rule, sir;
 Hip Hooray, Hip Hooray!
 Hip Hooray, Seniors grand!
Whenever there is any fuss, sir,
The other classes call on us, sir,
 Hip Hooray, Hip Hooray!
 Hip Hooray, Seniors grand!

The Coal Industry in Roslyn

The Roslyn coal field is situated in the central part of the state of Washington, in Kittitas county, extending from Cle Elum almost to Lake Cle Elum and from the crest of the ridge on the east to a fault near the Cle Elum river.

This field includes eight mines owned and operated by the Northwestern Improvement Company, two mines owned and operated by the Roslyn Fuel Company, and two mines owned and operated by the Roslyn-Cascade Coal Company. From these twelve the total output for the year nineteen hundred twelve was one million two hundred and thirty-five thousand, six hundred and ninety tons, by the report of the state inspector.

In these mines there are employed on inside work, one thousand four hundred and ninety-five men and on outside work, two hundred and forty-eight, making a total of one thousand seven hundred and forty-three men.

The mines are operated by improved methods except for the mining or cutting machine, which is not practical, on account of the pitching vein, so the old way of cutting coal by means of picks is still used.

The companies have their own electric power plants which supply the power to run the pumps, electric hoists and fans, besides furnishing electricity for lighting purposes. The electric motor for gathering and distributing cars is used in some of the mines, but not in all of them. This motor is used for gathering all the loaded cars from rooms and taking them to the foot of the slope, and it also distributes the empty cars to the rooms. In some of the mines mules are still retained for this purpose.

The three methods of opening the coal have been used in this district—the drift, which is an opening made where the vein of coal is level; the slope, which is where the vein of coal is on a pitch or incline; and the shaft, where the opening is made straight downward to a point where the work of digging can be started.

The Roslyn basin of bituminous coal is more valuable than that of any other in the state because of its persistence over a large territory and its freedom from faults. The value of the Roslyn coal is still further shown by the analysis herewith given. Samples taken from the Jonesville mine, Roslyn bed, in 1910 show as follows:

Moisture, 1.72 per cent; Volatile matter, 34.13 per cent; Ash, 12.37 per cent; Fixed Carbon, 51.38 per cent; Sulphur, .36 per cent.

The heating value of the coal is 13,149 British Thermol Unities per pound. There are very few mines that have coal with better or even as good heating value as the Roslyn bed of coal.

The coal is transported over the Northern Pacific Railroad and is shipped to all parts of this state and as far north as British Columbia.

Thus the above statistics show that the coal industry of this district is one of the most important industries in the state.

I'd love to roam forever on,
Across an endless sea,
And there to make my happy home,
Alone, on the wide, blue sea.

I'd love to roam on the seething foam,
And dance in and out on the waves;
I'd love to play with the ocean tide,
Which many a far shore laves.

Oh, then my pleasures would be fulfilled,
No troubles. no sorrows, no pain,
For there I'd live in sweet content,
And ne'er turn back again.

My Life History

As a necessary figure in the business world, I cheerfully and freely give the following account of my life, through a period of eventful years.

When I was born, my face was stamped brightly with the mark of honesty. Today as I look back over the past, I once more see myself among many, many of my kind.

Soon after I was born, I was forced out into the world, where I was to drift, causing sunshine, happiness, and pain. My first real adventure was after I had been out for some time (I cannot reckon time because day after day so many things happen that I cannot remember them all in their places, and I cannot read the calendar.) I made friends with a man who took such a fancy to me that he always kept me near him, together with several others of my own rank.

One morning while out for a streetcar ride with him, I slipped away and was lost. The car was packed, many people were crowding, and I was rudely jostled about. My feelings were hurt, but I could not object. Some time later, all the people went out and I was pushed roughly into a corner. Soon an old lady with a large market basket on her arm, came in and sat down near me. As she brushed the dust from her skirt, I came once more into the middle of the aisle. She looked me over carelessly at first, but upon recognizing me as a very noted personage, she extended her hand. I felt her clutch me tightly and I knew that for a short time, anyway, I again should have a friend.

Then for several months I returned to my old routine of meeting one person after another. I found myself in many trying circumstances. Already lines of care and worry were to be seen on my once bright face. One day I would be in the company of a small child, the next I would be hiding in some dark, desolate place, and again I would be a very welcome visitor of some hungry man.

My life was not a happy one, except when I gave pleasure to others. I have seen faces express joy and disappointment at seeing me.

I came here in an effort to regain my health, since I am so worn out I cannot work longer. There are many others here with me. Some are more scarred and bruised than I am. All of us are of no more use to the world.

But I am wasting time, for my life is soon ended, and I, the Five Dollar Bill, will vanish into smoke, and pass into an unknown world.

Costume Party

The entertainments of the year were begun by a costume party given by the Seniors in October. The gymnasium was decorated with tapestry and rugs to represent an old English home. Dainty refreshments were served, and the party broke up early.

Dinner to Football Boys

On November fifteenth, nineteen hundred twelve, a dinner was served to the football boys by some of the high school girls. The menu included cream of celery soup, wafers, salmon croquettes, tomato sauce, stuffed veal cutlets, buttered peas in timbals, mashed potatoes, Parkerhouse rolls, olives, apple sauce, cherry salad, cheese straws, vanilla ice cream, cake, coffee, crackers, cheese and salted nuts.

The decorations were evergreens and carnations. The place cards were done in water colors by Mrs. McCullough, and represented footballs in black and yellow.

Mr. Aiken, editor of THE CASCADE MINER acted as toastmaster, and called upon all the guests to respond to various toasts.

Freshies Give Party

About the middle of November the "Freshies" gave their annual party. The room was trimmed plainly but very effectively. The amusements were lively, and all the guests entertained upon them with zest. The party was a success from beginning to end.

Dinner Served Business Men

On February eleventh, nineteen hundred thirteen, a dinner was served to eighteen of the business men of the town who sell goods of a class used by the Domestic Science and Manual Training departments. The Freshman class in Domestic Science, assisted by Miss Wilson, prepared and served the dinner.

Evergreens and carnations made the background effective. An elaborate dinner was served.

The place cards were figures of small children. This dinner, as well as everything else the "Freshies" have given, was a great success.

Sophomores Entertain

The Sophomores gave a party to the high school on Washington's birthday. The entertainment was very agreeable. One very interesting feature was a mock trial, which proved to be very laughable.

The Sophomore class gave a dinner to the mothers of the girls of that class, on January thirtieth, 1913.

The room was prettily decorated in carnations and asparagus fern. The place cards were figures of quaint, old-fashioned women. The dinner was well planned and served, and was a splendid success.

Seniors Give "Weenie" Roast

After the play, "Lost, a Chaperon," the Seniors gave a "weenie" roast for those who had been in the cast and for those who had aided the play in any way. They built a huge bonfire among the pines and roasted "weenies" and marshmallows. Everybody had a fine time in spite of the threatened inclemency of the weather.

Junior Christmas Tree

At Christmas time the Juniors gave an elaborate and altogether delightful party. The gymnasium was decorated profusely with greens. At one end of the hall was a fireplace, by means of which the old Yule log ceremony was carried out. At the other end of the hall was a dazzling Christmas tree, from which Santa Claus (Charley Bettine) later in the evening distributed "fool" Christmas presents. From a bower of greens in the gallery a number of girls, dressed in white robes, wearing silver crowns and carrying tall candles, sang Christmas carols from time to time. Finally the wassail bowl (punch) was brought in, and the guests joined hands about the Christmas tree, singing "Auld Lang Syne," after which all departed, declaring they had had a royal time.

Banquet University Students

The Domestic Science girls served a banquet to a number of the University of Washington mining students, who were in Roslyn, upon the invitation of the Y. M. C. A. The girls showed their ability along this line and served a fine dinner.

Girls' Glee Club

If any one happened to pass by the schoolhouse on any Tuesday or Thursday of the past winter, they might have heard a sound resembling a midnight conclave of cats on the back fence. Well, that was the Girls' Glee Club practicing.

Laying aside the funny part of this club, it has done a great deal of work during the past year. It has supplied music for nearly all entertainments given by the high school, both as a whole and through the agency of its quartette and trio.

Its masterpiece was accomplished in the presentation of the May Festival, on May twenty-third. This Festival was presented by the Glee Club, with the assistance of a few of the high school boys. The program was as follows:

1. Cantata, "The Garden Lily and the Meadow Flowers" - Clarke
Entire Club
2. Sweetpea Drill - - - - - Thirteen Girls
3. Trio, "Twilight Star" - - - - - Barnby
Lucy Doerr, Frances Bowie, Clara Henry
4. Musical Reading, "Little Boy Blue" - - - - - Sara Pickering
5. Cradle Song - - - - - Clarissa Jones, Corinne Saindon
6. Reading, "How Grandma Danced" - - - - - Rosella Karrer
7. Colonial Minuet - - - - -
Kate Bagley, Lucy Doerr, Bessie Jones, Anna Briskey, Raymond
Granberg, Lewis Savage, Charley Bettine and Alfred Sides
8. "Sweet May" - - - - -
Alice Pickering, Frances Bowie, Jennie Hodgson, Selma Holland,
Corinne Saindon and Clara Henry
9. "Gypsy Festival" - - - - - Earle
Entire Club
10. Chorus, "Goodnight" - - - - - Entire Club

The success of this club has been due to two things. First, the assistance of Miss Jeans, who has spent a large part of her time out of school hours in training the girls. Second, to the enthusiasm and hard work of the members of the club.

We close with all good wishes to the club of next year, hoping that they will make their work even more successful than ours has been.

Programs

Several programs have been presented by the high school during the past year.

The first program was given on September twenty-seventh. It was given by the class of 1912 to remove a debt incurred by the publishing of the 1912 MOUNTAIN MESSENGER. This program was presented largely by means of the assistance of the present members of the high school and was well patronized by the public.

Several programs have been given as a means of celebrating dates of national interest. On October twelfth, Lincoln's birthday, the program was presented by the Seniors and on Washington's birthday, February twenty-second, by the Juniors.

In addition to these, programs have been presented by the two literary societies of the high school, chiefly as a means of bringing to light debating material for our team next year.

These programs have been a source of both pleasure and instruction.

Throughout the year assemblies have been held on Monday mornings. Addresses upon subjects of national and local interest were delivered by Rev. S. W. Richards, Rev. J. A. Palmer, Rev. E. M. Kornke, Mr. Harry L. Brown, Mr. James Lane, Mr. G. K. Aiken, Mr. D. G. Bing, Dr. E. W. Stimpson, Mr. B. G. Mitchell, Captain Thompson, and others.

Penelope Sewing Club

The feminine portion of the high school organized a club known as the "Penelope Sewing Club." It selected as its president Miss Alice Pickering.

This club met at the homes of the different members, each person bringing her sewing. Perhaps there was not as much sewing done as there might have been, but I am sure we all look back with pleasure to those meetings, and their accompaniment of "good eats".

Debate

Alice Pickering

Clara Henry

Early in November an announcement was made that Roslyn had been listed for a debate with Sunnyside High School for November twenty-second. Interest ran high and soon six girls were working hard upon individual debates. From these the two with the best debates were chosen to represent the Roslyn high school. Those entering were Frances Bowie, Minnie Leopold, Anna Briskey, Corinne Saindon, Alice Pickering and Clara Henry.

The judges decided that Alice Pickering as first speaker and Clara Henry as second, were to take part in the battle of words. Frances Bowie and Minnie Leopold were chosen as alternates. The debaters worked hard upon the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, That this state should continue the policy of constructing state roads and permanent highways with increasing appropriations therefor."

At the last moment Sunnyside forfeited.

We were then listed against Buckley high school, this time to defend the negative side of the question. On January tenth the team, accompanied by its coach, Miss E. Jeans, made the trip. The decision was Buckley 2; Roslyn 1. This ended the debating season for 1913.

Athletics in the High School

The prospects for football looked anything but bright at the beginning of the year. At no time in the history of the school had the outlook been so discouraging. Practice was called on September 15, but eleven men could not be gathered to practice. On September 20, the team was booked for a game with Ellensburg's first team. Only nine men could be found who would go. These went and were defeated with the score of 50 to 0.

The next game was with the Cle Elum High School on their field, on October 25. The game was a decided victory for Roslyn, the score being 31 to 0.

On October 29 Cle Elum arrived, anxious to settle old scores, but she was not able, being defeated by a score of 12 to 0.

The last game of the season was with the Ellensburg second team. The Roslyn High School team, although playing against a heavier team, won the game with the score 19 to 0.

Owing to Principal Clark's coaching, the team made a better record this year than ever before. It lost one game and won three. The team lined up as follows; Jack Pickering, center; Russell Thomas and Americus Piela, guards; George Clark and James Lennon, tackles; Arthur Sharp and Lewis Savage, ends; Charles Bettine and Melvin Gallaher, half-backs; Eric Fiegle, full-back; Raymond Granberg, quarterback and captain; Bryan Mulvaney and Andy Blamar, substitute.

Basket Ball

Mr. Clark called the basket ball season about the middle of December. Only six men turned out. The team consisted of smaller men than any the year before. On January 11, 1913, Ellensburg came up to try their luck at beating Roslyn. In a hard fought game Roslyn won, with a score of 21 to 16.

The first game of the season with Cle Elum was won by Roslyn on their home floor by a close score, 21 to 18.

On January 31, Yakima carried away the honors at Roslyn, with the score 32 to 18.

This year a trip was made to Prosser, Yakima and Ellensburg on February 6. Roslyn was defeated at Prosser by a score of 52 to 7. February 7 Roslyn left Yakima with a defeat to the tune of 24 to 8. In Ellensburg the team was surprised by a score of 26 to 16.

On February 25 the team went to Cle Elum and there won the second game from them with a score of 30 to 21.

On March 6 the Ellensburg high school team arrived to decide the championship of the county. Each team had one game to its credit. The game was won by Roslyn by a score of 24 to 15, thus giving Roslyn the championship of the county. This game ended the season for 1913.

Players were: Eric Fiegle, captain; Lewis Savage, James Lennon and Charles Bettine, forwards; Arthur Sharp and Raymond Granberg, guards.

Boys' Base Ball

This year, under the coaching of Mr. McCullough, a baseball team has been organized. Lewis Savage was elected captain. The Roslyn high school has not had a team for several years. The first game with Cle Elum, on our grounds, on May 13. resulted in a tie, 5 to 5. The game was called in the seventh inning on account of the visitors having to catch a train.

The Cross-Country Run

The first annual cross-country run of the Roslyn High school was held this year. A gold medal and a silver medal of very attractive design were offered as prizes. Only four boys turned out for this run. The date was set for April 19. The run started and finished on Pennsylvania Avenue, the boys having run half way to Cle Elum and back, making a total of four miles.

The race was won by Raymond Granberg, with Arthur Sharp in second place. Lewis Savage and Charles Bettine also ran in the race. The time was twenty-five minutes and thirty seconds. Next year another run will be made and it is hoped that the turnout will be larger. R. G., '13.

Doings in the Eighth Grade

During the first semester of the term the most important event was the dramatization of "The Courtship of Miles Standish," which was given in the high school gymnasium on the Friday before Thanksgiving. The play proved a success, much of which was due to Miss Cundiff's training. After the play lunch was served by Miss Wilson, of the domestic science department in the high school.

During the term the pupils had the pleasure of listening to a number of speakers, who were as follows: Mr. Wm. Clark, who spoke on "Mines and Mining"; Mr. C. G. Morgan, who spoke on the building of houses; Rev. J. A. Palmer, who was the speaker for Lincoln's Birthday; Mr. B. G. Mitchell, who told of his experiences in Alaska; Mr. H. L. Brown, who gave an account of his stay in the Philippines; Mr. G. K. Aiken, who was the speaker for "Peace Day," and gave his opinion of war with Japan.

On Friday, December 13, 1912, the Grammar School gave a play in the Opera House, entitled "Bi-Bi." It proved a great success and the proceeds were used to buy new books for the library.

The Eighth Grade Agricultural class, under the instruction of Miss Johnson, planted a garden. Each pupil was given a plot.

Eighth Grade Athletics

Starting the season in football under the leadership of Eugene Henry, the Eighth Grade football team held the Cle Elum eleven to a tie 0-0.

We did a little better in basketball. The Cle Elum quintette traveled to Roslyn on November sixteenth, nineteen hundred twelve, and was defeated by the Roslyn quintette, with a score of 21-9. This game was under the leadership of Dewey Bullock.

The "all-star" basket ball team was chosen by Eric Fiegle as follows: Joseph Savage and Stephen Clucher, forwards; Alfred Sides, center, Joseph Sample and Laurence Sharpe, guards, Peter Bachino, substitute. This team defeated the Cle Elum team again in December. In January the Roslyn team took a trip down to Cle Elum. The game was fast, but one of our men was crippled and we lost the game by a score of eighteen to sixteen.

The Roslyn Grammar School baseball team has been organized, with Samson Dyer as captain and Peter Bachino as manager. The team expects to play a number of games with Cle Elum during the season.

Girls' Basketball

At the first of the year it was rather hard to work up basket ball interest among the girls, because it had been dropped the year before. Alice Pickering was elected manager and captain. No outside games could be arranged except one with Ellensburg high school. In the early part of the season a preliminary game was played by all the girls that had been practiced. The following team was selected to represent the Roslyn high school:

Sarah Pickering, center
Lucy Doerr, second center
Alice Pickering, forward
Mildred Smith, forward
Fanny Briskey, guard
Kate Bagley, guard
Bessie Jones, guard

On the eighth of January the team, accompanied by its coach, Miss I. Johnson, went to Ellensburg and won a game by a score of 5 to 10. A month later Ellensburg played here. Roslyn again carried off the honors with a score of 12 to 9, thus gaining the county championship. This ended the basketball season for the year.
